

Trying a brand new restaurant is a lot like going on a blind date - both are capable of causing a wave of anticipation mixed with apprehension. Plus, they both risk time and money. So when it comes to trying out Denver's newest downtown eatery, Pi, located at the charming new Hilton Garden Inn, a new 221 room hotel at 14th and Welton, one might wonder if it's really worth the trip. The good news is yes, with no reservations.

by Corinne Brown
photos by Laurie Mohlenkamp